

Work station supply belts

Work station supply belts are an ideal way of raising the productivity of your staff. No longer do staff need to collect laundry themselves: the laundry comes to them. Now that's what we call working efficiently.

What are work station supply belts?

Work station supply belts provide a simple way for you to raise the productivity of your employees. These belts make the manual movement of wash carts redundant. Supplying laundry constantly via these conveyor belts is ergonomically sound and gives you the scope to decide the order of work. Above all, you can give your employees customer-specific work instructions.

Features

- Ergonomic and efficient supply of laundry to workstations
